THE CLAY MINERALS SOCIETY OF INDIA (CMSI)

The Clay Minerals Society of India (CMSI) was formed in New Delhi in 1982 as a platform for multi-disciplinary activities covering all branches of Clay Science, viz., Soils and Agriculture, Geosciences and Mining, Ceramics and Refractories, Drugs and Pharmaceuticals, Petrochemicals and Pollution Control to even Clay Modelling and Origin of Life. The CMSI regularly publishes a journal called "Clay Research". Till date, CMSI has organised twenty three National Conferences.

The CMSI is organising its Twenty fourth Annual Convention and National Conference on "Application of Clay and Allied Sciences in Agriculture, Environment and Industry" at ICAR-NBSS&LUP, Regional Centre, Kolkata during September 22-23, 2022.

There will be four technical sessions, one special session, and Professor S.K. Mukherjee-CMSI Foundation Lecture. Besides, presentations by the CMSI Young Scientist Awardee and "Travel Grant Award" recipients will be organized in the conference.

The presentations in the convention will be included in the following broad themes.

- Clay Mineralogy and Nano-science
- Application of clays and clay minerals in various fields
- Soil Resources, Soil Health and Environment Quality
